Jelly King Dry Hopped Sour 10

5.6% abv | 500 ml bottle | Bellwoods Brewery, Toronto

Rather than choosing between sour or hoppy, we decided to create a beer that would be both at the same time. Showcasing the aromatic benefits of a generous dry hop (Citra, Amarillo, and Cascade), harnessing the pleasing acidity of lactic acid producing bacteria (we use a house blend), and coming to a bottle near you without a pesky 2 year slumber in oak, Jelly King is the fermented embodiment of having your cake and eating it too.

What it smells like, what it tastes like, what it looks like: An everyday, juicy, drinkable sour with punchy hop aromatics and fruity foundational flavours. Low bitterness, light body, and pale yellow in colour, with notes of fuzzy peach, tangerine, and cedar.

Bellweiser Pilsner

4.8% abv | 473 ml can | Bellwoods Brewery, Toronto

Bellweiser is our take on an 'old world' pilsner, showcasing a pale malt body, firm bitter backbone, and noble-esque hops. The dry-hop on this one is almost non-existent to make room for lots of yeast-derived aromatics, and the resulting beer crosses off all the 'crisp', 'clean', and "refreshing" boxes you need it to.

What it smells and tastes like: Brewed with a neutral yeast, allowing the subtle interplay of hops and malt to shine through. Light floral aromatics, soft bitterness in the finish, easy to drink.
